Notice of the Cash Handout Program for Inflation

To ease financial hardships caused by the rising prices of goods and services, 70,000-yen handouts are scheduled to be provided to households most stressed by inflation, such as tax-exempt households, as follows.

Having received this notice means that your household may have a chance to receive the handout payment. Therefore, please read through eligibility criteria, etc. below, and submit the application form and requirements to the city by March 9 \(Fri\) 2024. The application form and return envelope can be found in the same envelope as this notice was enclosed in. Your submission must be postmarked no later than the due date.

1. Eligibility Criteria

Households that can meet all the following criteria from A to D qualify for a cash handout of 70,000 yen under this program.

A: Your household has been registered on Hikone City's Basic Resident Register Network as of December 1, 2023.

B: All your household members must be exempt from fiscal 2023 resident tax.

C: None of your household members is a dependent of someone who has been subject to fiscal 2023 resident tax.

D: None of your household members is a beneficiary of tax exemption under the Japan Tax treaty.

*If you are not sure whether you are a dependent of someone, be sure to clear it up before making your application for this cash handout program.

2. Important Points Upon Filling Out The Application Form

- Do not Forget to check either or both boxes of "Tax-Exempt" or "Haven't Done Taxes Yet" in the section No.2 of the form for all your household members including the householder.
- Make sure to read through all the conditions listed in the section No.3, and check the box only if you agree to them.
- Please refer to the instructions of filling out the form, and be sure to complete it without no required info missing.

3. Amount Of Cash Handout

70,000 JPY per qualifying household

*Note that this is a one-off handout payment.

4. Requirements
